

The general objective of “Play Volleyball, grow with it 2.0” (PVGW 2.0) is to inspire primary and secondary school children to get and be active, while simultaneously expanding diversity and inclusivity through sport. This will be achieved by strengthening the cooperation between Volleyball clubs and schools, and by expanding the knowledge of physical education teachers and Volleyball club coaches. In other words, the idea of the project is to build and disseminate an educational programme including Volleyball-specific and safeguarding awareness content at the grassroots level that will enable children and teachers/coaches (practitioners) to participate and contribute to more active, diversified learning environments. Our mission will ensure that more children establish a strong connection between and association with fun, inclusive sport while building healthy habits. Beside the main objectives to inspire children to move, the project actions are designed with sustainability in mind where all the activities and deliverables will be done in an environmentally friendly way. The aim of the PVGW 2.0 is that we will positively impact its participants and participating organizations, as well as their wider communities on both national and international levels.
